OILSEEDS: CRUSHED, MEAL AND OIL PRODUCTION AND ENDING STOCKS, OCTOBER 1983.....15

HIGHLIGHTS: Oilseed markets were sharply higher during the week ended Dec. 1. Winter storms expanded domestic feeding and strong precious metal markets strengthened export demand for soybeans and soybean products. Wheat and feed grain markets were mixed in light trading. Mexico bought heavily in the feed grain and oilseed complex and China announced they would honor the grain pact by taking the minimum amount called for in the agreement. Flour milling picked up as cooler temperatures increased flour usage.

WHEAT: Wheat prices were mixed but mostly higher and was supported by a pick up in flour mill run time, China's announcement they would take the minimum grain totals called for in their grain pact, and orderly marketing at the farm level. The lack of much large export business by large grain firms tempered demand. Kansas City No. hard red winter ordinary protein wheat was up 3 cents per bushel. St. Louis No. 2 soft red winter wheat was up 10-13 cents per bushel. Wheat prices were supported by higher feed grain markets as wheat feeding increased. Minneapolis No. 1 dark northern spring 14 percent protein wheat declined 5 cents as the lakes shipping season was closing. Portland No. 1 soft white wheat advanced 7 cents per bushel.

CORN: Corn markets were higher on tight farm holding and expanded feed grain sales to Mexico. Omaha No. 2 yellow corn sold 6-7 cents higher per bushel. Kansas City No. 2 milling quality white corn trade was light and limited buying interest forced markets sharply lower.

OATS AND BARLEY: Oats and barley prices were mixed with light demand partially offset by news that some Canadian barley was in with fungus. Minneapolis No. 2 heavy oats traded 4 cents lower to 2 cents higher per bushel. Minneapolis best malting barley declined 10 cents per bushel. Los Angeles No. 2 barley was 3-4 cents lower per bushel.

SORGHUM: Sorghum trading was light but supported by expanded Mexican buying. Kansas City No. 2 yellow sorghum rose 14 cents per hundred pounds. Texas High Plains prices were steady to 10 cents higher per hundred weight.

OILSEEDS: Soybean markets were supported by increased export and domestic soybean meal demand. Fairly tight holding at the farm level added strength, Illinois processor bids ranged 36-44 cents higher per bushel. Minneapolis flaxseed rose 5 cents per bushel. Duluth sunflower seed was up $1.10 per hundred pounds. Minneapolis sunflower oil rose 3/4 cent to 28 cents per pound.

HIGHLIGHTS

Feedstuffs and feed grain traded mixed but moved to higher average price levels during the week ended Nov. 29. Winter storms disrupted transportation and livestock feeding in much of the western one third of the nation. Cooler temperatures prompted a little pick up in feed stocking but buying remained largely for nearby usage. Farmers offered little grain for sale which contributed market support to cash grains. Improved feeding margins for livestock and poultry gave a boost to feed volume.

OILSEED MEAL:

A sharp turn around in soybean prices supported soybean meal in spite of heavy supply and soybean meal markets moved mostly higher. Decatur 44 percent protein meal rose $5.50 and 48 percent protein meal ranged $6.00 higher per ton. Solvent cottonseed meal traded unchanged at Texas points but rose $1.00 at California mills. Minneapolis linseed meal held steady in thin trade. Sunflower 28 percent protein meal declined $5.00 per ton and sunflower oil rose to 27 3/4 cents per pound at Minneapolis.

ANIMAL PROTEIN·

Meat meal markets moved mostly lower due to lack of buying interest to keep offerings cleaned up. Minneapolis meat meal fell $7.50 and the Kansas City market declined $5.00 per ton. East Coast fish meal dropped $7.50 and the gulf price went down $5.00 per ton. Slow demand caused price cutting by firms wanting to move stocks. Other producers held price quotes and were waiting for a pick up in usage.

CORN FEEDS:

Corn feeds were supported by higher cash corn markets and scarcity of mid protein feedstuffs but slow demand caused spot weakness. Corn gluten feed was steady at Chicago but fell $5.00 per ton at Kansas City. Yellow hominy feed held steady at Kansas City but dropped $2.00 at Illinois points. Distillers and brewers' dried grains were nearly unobtainable due to lack of production and a sold out position of major suppliers. Prices were steady to $2.00 per ton higher in the few trades reported.

WHEAT MILLFEEDS:

Flour mill grind showed a little pick up and cooler temperatures added strength to feed mixer business. Prices move in a mixed trend. Minneapolis middlings rose $2.00 but the Buffalo market eased $2.00 lower per ton. West Coast millrun markets rose .50 cents per ton.

ALFALFA PRODUCTS:

Alfalfa supplies continue to tighten but slow demand provided a damper to upward price movement. Alfalfa Center Nebraska dehydrated alfalfa pellets traded $1.00 higher and Minneapolis reground pellets rose $2.00 per ton. Los Angeles sun-cured alfalfa pellets traded $2.50 higher per ton. Platte Valley, Nebraska baled alfalfa hay advanced $5.00 per ton on farms.

MOLASSES:

Feeding cane molasses sold mostly steady under light demand. Winter storms from the Rocky Mountains across the midwest, along with very cold temperatures, stimulated a slight increase in inquiry. However, end users were reluctant to book large quantities at present price levels. Beet molasses supplies available for the spot market are limited in the Red River Valley, Southern California and essentially non existent in the High Plains and Northern California. Market mostly steady although most of the movement was on previous contracts.
